From 2011-2020, more than 17,000 workers in the U.S. died in a work-related motor vehicle crash.¹

Motor vehicle crashes are the #1 cause of work-related deaths in the U.S.¹

In 2019 alone, work-related crashes cost employers $39 billion.

- $75,000 per nonfatal injury
- $751,000 per death¹

Approximately 54 percent of all fatal crashes involving large trucks occurred in rural areas.²

Nationwide is focused on protecting you — and your business — in the field and on the road. Drive the 5 is a program created to help drivers get to where they are going safely.
